MAY AWARD SHIPS TO PRIVATE YARDS

Navy Department and Ship
Builders Still in Conference
—More Money Will be Needed.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Private shipbuilders and Navy officials were in conference again yesterday without reaching agreement regarding contracts for construction of 15 vessels of the 1917 Navy building program. With the exception of the four scout cruisers, the question of price is not involved, it is understood, the discussions having to do with modifications of contract stipulations.

Indications last night were that the battleships included in the program would be built two by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company and two by the New York Shipbuilding Company, their bids having been found most acceptable by the board which reviewed them.

Whether the steam-electric drive system preferred by the Navy will be installed had not been finally settled last night. This aspect of the bids occupied the conference today. The builders have submitted proposals to construct the hulls and other machinery of the ships, leaving it to the Government to purchase and supply the electrical-drive equipment similar to that being provided for the California, Tennessee and New Mexico.

Navy officials want the builders to assume full responsibility for the ships and their machinery, making their agreements with the electrical equipment companies, which also are represented at the conference. It is understood the electric companies have renewed their assurances that there will be no delay in deliveries.

The discussion may continue several days longer. So far only the battleship and destroyer bids have been considered, the question of the scout cruisers and the submarines having been passed for the present.

The board is understood to have recommended the awarding of contract for eight destroyers to the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, Quincy, Mass.; six to the Union Iron Works, San Francisco, and two to William Cramp & Sons, Philadelphia. There are many points in the modifications proposed still to be worked out, however, and awards may be delayed, even if the board's recommendations are followed.

DEUTSCHLAND RAMS AND SINKS CONVOY

Tug T. A. Scott, Jr., Sunk and Captain and Crew Drowned--The Deutschland
Back at Her Pier

(Special to The Herald)

New London, Nov. 17.—The German submarine Deutschland rammed and sank one of her convoying tugs which crossed the bow of the submarine to ward off a motor boat bearing down on the German U-boat. The tug T. A. Scott, Jr., with her crew of five men and Captain John Gurney went down in deep water and the captain and crew were all drowned. The Deutschland immediately put back to her pier here and she is reported badly damaged.

The Deutschland was on her way to sea and was moving down the Race about 11 miles from this city when a motor boat appeared out of the light haze and bore down on the German submarine. The tug, T. A. Scott Jr., which was racing along with the submarine immediately pulled sharp across the bow of the Deutschland to get between the motor boat and her charge, but the captain underestimated the speed of the Deutschland and the heavy blow of the submarine struck the tug amidships, leaving a great hole and driving her over on her side and she sank without fighting, the captain and crew not having a chance to save themselves.

The accident happened at 2.15, just an hour after the Deutschland cleared from the state pier, and as soon as possible, after every effort had been made to locate the men of the sunken tug, she turned her nose back and came into her pier.

Officials are unable to say what became of the boat or what its object was in closing in on the Deutschland, but the crew of the Scott who had acted before for the Deutschland were not taking any chances of their being bent on harming the submarine. The big boat was struck amidships on the starboard side and sank almost immediately. The nose of the submarine bit deep into the side of the tug. Her stern was lifted up and her propellers freed from the water, humming like gigantic electric fans.

Captain Frederick Hinsch, agent for the Eastern Forwarding Company, had a narrow escape. He was standing on the deck of the T. A. Scott, Jr., talking through a megaphone to Capt. Paul Koenig. He was thrown into the water and nearly drowned before he was rescued. News of the accident was sent by wireless to the Scott Company and the company's tugs responded and escorted the submarine back to her pier.

The drowned are Captain John man Edward Stone, cook Clarence Davidson, deckhand Eugene Dusan.

Attempts to interview Paul Halton, agent of the company were without success. He said Captain Hinsch was at his home at Neptune Park to ill to talk. He said he was not injured but was suffering from the shock. He also said the company might issue a statement, but not before tonight. The Deutschland's bow is bent and some of the rivets loosened. Extensive repairs will have to be made and those in a position to know say she will be obliged to remain here a week or ten days.

Captain Koenig remained as silent as a sphinx in regard to the accident. The Deutschland carried a $2,000,000 cargo of crude rubber, nickel and sil-

FARM BUILDING DESTROYED AT GREENLAND

Including Valuable Live Stock, Thirty
Tons of Hay and Farming Implements--Origin of Fire Unknown

The large barn of Arthur H. Thompson situated on the North Hampton road in Greenland, about three-quarters of a mile from Greenland Parade was completely destroyed by fire shortly before noon on Friday, together with two horses, five cows, thirty tons of hay and farming utensils. Mr. Thompson was sick in bed and the fire was discovered by his wife who promptly gave an alarm. The neighbors responded and a bucket brigade was formed and did efficient work. Fortunately the fire was blowing away from the Thompson homestead. The auto, chemical and crew from Portsmouth went to the scene but on their arrival the fire was so far advanced that they were unable to check it.

The origin of the fire is a mystery and the loss will fall heavily on Mr. Thompson who carried an insurance of only $200 on the building. His loss is estimated at $1500. His hired man had been engaged in hauling wood and had only put up the pair of horses a short time before the fire was discovered.

American Schooner Fred H. Davenport
Lost and Three of her Crew Drowned

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Nov. 17.—Commander Edwin Pollock of the transport Hancock, in Haitian waters, reported to the navy department today the loss of the schooner Fred H. Davenport on Wednesday at Cape Frances, Port-au-Prince. The following members of the crew are reported lost: James E. Mulberry, first mate W. L. Hallard, cook W. C. Engarde, seaman. The Davenport's captain, whose name is not given, was seriously injured. Four of the crew were rescued by the U. S. tender Plomine, and landed at Puerto Plata.

Francisco.

On behalf of his fellow workmen at the market he was presented with a costly traveling bag. The presentation was made by William Blanks and the recipient responded with much feeling. Refreshments were served and the guests enjoyed a pleasing musical program. Mr. Reardon, accompanied by his mother, will leave for the West coast on Nov. 21.

DEPARTMENT DEMANDS ENFORCEMENT

Decree to Divorce N. Y., N. H.
& H. R. R. From Its Water
Lines Asked by Government.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Nov. 17.—The Department of Justice, in opposition to petition of hundreds of cities and business organizations, filed with the Interstate Commission today a brief demanding the immediate enforcement of the decree against the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., divorcing the railroad from its water line in New England territory. The department charged that the operation of water lines was "monopolistic and in restraint of trade." Business and civic organizations filed pleas with the government several weeks ago asking that the company be permitted to continue the water lines, stating that otherwise a hardship would be forced upon New England commerce.

MONASTIR MAY FALL WITHIN A FEW HOURS

London, Nov. 15.—Monastir is at most within reach of Gen. Sarrail's formidable Franco-Serbian forces after one of the most astonishing advances recorded in the great European war.

Battling against snow and rain over great natural mountain fortresses, the allied forces have now reached the plain of Monastir, and today's official communiqué from Paris—partially confirmed in the Berlin statement—indicates sweeping back of the Bulgarian-Teutonic line, to a point within four miles of the city of Monastir.

Berlin's admission was a brief comment that "prepared new positions" in the Cerna section were occupied.

The new positions achieved by the Franco-Serbian troops are the result of two separate successive flanking movements. The first involved the well-nigh impossible passage, under fire, of the mountains which guard the head of the Cerna river, to the east of Monastir, and a thrust westward from these hard won heights. It was successful.

With practically all of the Cerna banks in their possession, the allies now are again striking out, forcing the Teutons back. This is the second abandonment of positions of the Monastir plain tacitly admitted by Berlin.

The Sofia official statement of today likewise admits a "return" northward toward Tepelena and Glogu.

On the western front, the allies are sustaining again today the same determined German counter attacks that have made this battleground a chaos of fire. In a new assault during the night French troops succeeded in dislodging German forces which had taken each part of the village of Tresosho.

The weight of the German counter-attack was indicated in the Franco-Communique declaring the Teutons threw the solid weight of three full divisions—approximately 50,000 men—against the French line.

British Pay Heavy Toll to Somme Front.

Berlin, Nov. 15, via Sayville wireless.—Gen. von Hindenburg is forcing the British to pay a toll of lives entirely disproportionate to their gains in the fighting on the Somme front, military authorities declare. Today he had their line under terrible fire, with the prospect that the enormous casualties which they suffered in making their initial advance would be repeated.

All reports from the front say the British attack was entirely without regard to sacrifice of life. The German troops bitterly defended their line despite almost complete destruction of their positions.

Adverses today from the front say officers all admit that by concentration of enormous stores on a small front, and launching of a gigantic offensive the enemy could win a few trenches and villages, but these attacks would be so costly that they could not be repeated often enough to make the entire territory won worth the price paid in men. Frank admission is made here in Berlin of British gains of fortified positions. But there are so many hundrreds of similar positions around the Somme horseshoe line that these attacks, according to German officers, can be considered uncomfortable but not dangerous.

It was pointed out in Berlin today that after 4 1/2 months of limited success on the Somme, the British have been forced to another gigantic effort by the restiveness of the Italians and growing anxiety in London over increased food prices.

According to a dispatch from Lugano, Switzerland, to the Vossische Zeitung, the German d'Italia of Rome answers criticisms in Rome of England's prolonging the war not only to crash Germany, but the allies as well, by remarking that England is growing rich by forcing the allies to purchase all supplies through London and Liverpool.

The Lokal Anzeiger features as its main article the resolution introduced in the British Commons by William Hewins asking that the government organize food supplies to prevent danger of increasing food prices. This, the editorial argues, indicates a shortage produced by the German submarine warfare.

Wave of Steel Sweeps Allied Front.

London, Nov. 16.—An increasing series of attacks and counter attacks swept a wave of fire and steel across six miles of the Franco-British front today. There it appeared the night-est thrust the Germans have yet made in counter attack was centering upon that portion of the line where the British and French forces joined hands.

Meanwhile, along the rest of the 60-mile front, there was an almost continuous grapple. To the north the British were still smashing forward, consolidating their gains and improving their positions under desperate onslaughts from the enemy. Southward the French lines were forced slightly to give way from the tremendous concerted pressure at the very base of the angle which recent British and French gains have thrust into the German lines.

The German gains were insignificant compared to the prodigious expenditure of men and ammunition which they experienced. Every instrument of warfare in the German repertoire was called into operation—big guns, small guns, hand grenades, bombs dropped from aeroplanes, machine guns, poison gas, "tear" shells—and the bayonet.

It was Gen. Foch's French troops that bore the brunt of the day's fighting. Within striking distance of Chaulmieu, an important center, these troops have been threatening an enveloping movement here for several days.

The very point of the thrust into the German lines by the allied advance was also being sharpened by the clash of steel against steel and man against man around stallions and northeast of Comblieu.

Gen. Sir Douglas Haig reported today considerable shelling by the enemy northwards and southwards of the Ancre during the night. Otherwise he had nothing to report.

steampship the submarine's shots were aimed accurately astern to limit the danger to the crew, which was congested at the bow. The Rowanmore was hit ten times, the last shell disabling her propeller.

The submarine ceased firing, the report continues, immediately it was observed that the Rowanmore had abandoned the effort to escape. No shots were fired at the men. In the boats, just before she stopped the Rowanmore hoisted a signal, but it was impossible to read it from the submarine at that time about 2000 yards away. Later it was shown that the signal was "I surrender."

The master of the Rowanmore attempted to justify his attempt to escape, by the assertion that he desired to gain time to launch boats, but this pretext was not accepted. Later the Rowanmore's captain was made a prisoner of war for attempting to escape and for summoning assistance by wireless, which speedily brought up a British destroyer. Thereupon the Rowanmore was sunk by a torpedo.

There were two white Americans and five Filipinos in the crew of the steampship.

As a result both sides of the American-Mexican peace commission thought the border control agreement, including early withdrawal of Gen. Pershing's forces from Mexico would be approved by Saturday night, barring unforeseen complications.

OPENING PARTY HELD BY THE YACHT CLUB

Dinner and Vaudeville Entertainment Last Evening Attended by Nearly One Hundred Members

The Portsmouth Yacht Club opened its winter season last evening with a dinner and vaudeville entertainment and members and guests to the number of nearly one hundred turned out for the occasion. It was one of the most successful of the indoor entertainments presented by the club which gained during the past two years an enviable reputation for their social times. The talent for the entertainment program was secured by the committee after several trips to Boston and the guests of the evening were satisfied that they had made a perfect selection.

The evening opened by the serving of dinner at 7:30 o'clock and the stewards had a menu including lobster and chicken salads, cold meats, vegetables, rolls and coffee, with enough to feed a fleet of yacht clubs had more arrived.

During the dinner, which was presided over by Commodore Luke Ashworth as toastmaster, the vaudeville talent entertained by songs and monologues. Several speeches and informal talks were made by members on the occasion of the toastmaster and the dinner was concluded at 9:00 o'clock when the regular entertainment program was commenced. This included fancy dancing, solos and duets, and ensemble singing, with the Portsmouth quartet and Forecastle trio doing their share in the work. One of the special numbers was contributed by Alexander Blumbeck, a member of the club, who made last evening what is probably his final appearance before the waterfront organization, as he is leaving the city next week. Mr. Blumbeck was obliged to respond with several encores before his audience would allow him to retire. For the vaudeville numbers Leon A. Robinson presided at the piano.

At the conclusion of the regular entertainment program the club members and their guests indulged in an impromptu musical program which included a long list of the old and the new popular songs. The committee in charge of the evening was headed by Commodore Ashworth as chairman.

CONDITIONS PROPER IN BOSTON

No Hardship From Minimum Wage for Women Workers.

Boston, Nov. 16.—Professor Arthur N. Holcombe of Harvard declares that the employment of inexperienced adult women in retail stores in this state at less than decent living wages has nearly come to an end. Prof. Holcombe is chairman of the Minimum Wage Commission. The minimum wage, he says, does not tend to become a maximum, and while the minimum wage in the retail store industry did cause some unemployment, the loss was small, and those who suffered in this way were for the most part better off. Most of the advances, he felt sure, would not have been made except for the law. Prof. Holcombe urged that the storekeepers who are still holding out ought to adopt the recommended wages, which include $5.50 a week for experienced women adult workers. The reason which he gave for this is that at the present time such employers are taking an unfair advantage of their competitors and also of their employees.

PLANNING A BIG NEW YEAR'S EVE

Boston Somewhat Up in Air Because It Falls on Sunday.

Boston, Nov. 16.—Because New Year's Eve comes on Sunday night this year, celebration plans are up in the air so far as the Boston hotel men are concerned. To the hotel proprietors the situation sizes up as follows: They must have a New Year's celebration as usual but the real "night before" will come on Sunday. They can serve food and liquor in the dining rooms on Sunday up to 11 p. m., but there can be no dancing or noisy demonstrations, such as are considered absolutely necessary to the proper celebration of the passing of the old year. Besides, the hotel managers claim, that if they hold their parties Sunday night, there will be a protest from the clergy, church members and temperance workers, especially with the Billy Sunday revival in full blast. Hotel keepers in Springfield, Worcester and other cities are waiting to see what their Boston

WATCH MAGNATES WILL MAKE ODD REQUESTS.

Elkhorn, Wis., Nov. 16.—Once when James Hobart Moore, millionaire watch magnate, was down and out, his fortune wiped out, he was at his wife's ends for the money with which to start again. Came to him his coachman William Beattie.

"Mr. Moore," said Beattie, diffidently, "I have saved $2,500 out of what you have paid me. You are welcome to it."

"I'll take it," said Moore quickly. "As a loan, however."

Moore came back financially, recouped his lost wealth and repaid the loan. Also he gave Beattie tips on market affairs which made the coachman a millionaire himself, or very close to it.

When Moore died the other day his will had this bequest: "To William Beattie, $10,000." But Beattie still is a coachman for Moore's widow.

To friends, rich and poor alike, Moore left numerous bequests of $500 each "to buy some small token in remembrance of me." Among the legacies was "John, the office boy in New York." But John has passed along since the will was written in 1905. He now is John E. Gehlert, a prosperous embainer and sexton of twelve churches in New York. Gehlert was surprised when the news of the bequest came to him.

It was 20 years ago that John was an office boy for Moore in Chicago. He seems to have been an unusually good one, for he became Moore's secretary later. But the millionaire must have forgotten his last name, for his will merely mentioned "John, the office boy" and gave the address of his New York office.

BUSINESS VERY GOOD

Bradstreet's Weekly Trade Report on Portsmouth.

Bradstreet's last issue on the weekly trade report of the state says: "At Portsmouth the shoe factories have good orders at hand. They are continuing to manufacture beyond their average volume, although a scarcity of skilled labor is seriously felt at this point. The government has supplied the local navy yard with an abundance of work requiring the continual employment of a record number of mechanics; other industrial plants are reported very busy."

"The condition in the retail trade reflects the good conditions existing in the industries throughout the state; sales are averaging above normal and prospects are bright for a heavy fall and winter business. Reports indicate that collections range from fair to reasonably good."

TWENTY-ONE COUNTIES TO BE HEARD FROM

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 16.—Twenty-one counties in California remained to be heard from today in the official canvass of the presidential election. Of November 7, the twenty-one including the most populous of the state, Los Angeles, Alameda, San Francisco, San Diego and Sacramento.

When the count was resumed today the highest Republican elector was credited with 118,228 votes, while the lowest Democrat had 132,068, a plurality for the lowest Democrat elector of 13,840.

As no notable upsets in the first unofficial returns have yet been noted, state Democratic leaders predict their lowest elector will run ahead of the highest Republican elector by about 600 votes.

THEATRICAL COMPANY IS "NOT GUILTY"

JURY REPORTED AGAINST LEE LASH COMPANY IN CASE AGAINST COLONIAL THEA- TRE OPERATORS.

The jury in the case of the Lee Lash Studios against Gray and McDonough, Frank W. Knight and Albert Hislop, for alleged breach of contracts, returned verdicts of not guilty for the defendants and reported their findings shortly after 10:00 o'clock last evening after deliberating for six hours. The suits were for $1000 each.

The cases were based on alleged violation of contracts made by the Lee Lash company with the parties named shortly after the erection of the Colonial Theatre and prior to the formation of the Allied Theatres company. The contracts were for scenery furnished to the theatre and for an advertising service to be furnished by the local management.

According to the defense put up by the local people, the good purchased were not up to specifications, although retained, as conditions made it absolutely necessary to accept them at the time. Regarding the advertising service, the Lee Lash company had contracted with several local merchants, among them J. G. Sweetser, Puras Brothers, William McDonough, R. C. Dicksey, M. Selgel and J. B. Fildes, to furnish a certain service in connection with the scenery and the local theatrical people claimed that the Lee Lash company misrepresented the extent of this to them, following which there was trouble.

The Lee Lash people were represented by J. A. Broderick of Manchester and Messrs. Gray, McDonough, Knight and Hislop by Judge E. L. Gaffill and John H. Bartlett.

In addition to Messrs. McDonough, Hislop and Knight, the local subscribers to the advertising scheme were on the witness stand in the morning.

ing as was Mr. Rothenberg, the salesman who made the contracts. A view of the Colonial Theatre was taken by the jury following which the testimony was resumed. Several more witnesses were to be heard during the afternoon session, following which the case went to the jury.

The jury in the case consists of Charles W. Baxter, Baxter; Alvin D. Foss, Baxter; Carl L. Emery, Anderson; Benjamin S. Hoyt, Newington; Moses L. Sanborn, Deerfield; Edgar Osborne, Derry; William G. Brown, Raymond; Daniel J. Parsons, Rye; Orin L. Lane, Hampton; John E. Seavey, Greenland; C. E. Hilton, South Hampton and Josiah W. Chase, Seabrook.

From evidence brought out in the trial of the two cases it appears that the advertising proposition was fine pickings for the Lee Lash people. By their contracts with the advertisers they received for a period of five years the sum of $624 a year. For this they furnished the scenery in question to the theatre and in addition gave the theatrical management the sum of $100 a year. This gave them a profit of $524 a year minus the cost of the scenery. At the end of the five years the company was to receive the return of the scenery and during the time it remained in the possession of the theatrical company it was still the property of the studios. The case was complicated and five separate contracts, signed at different periods, were presented by the representative of the New York scenery concern.

All the world is a bit queer, friend, and sometimes it seems that C. Hercules Ebbels is the queerest of them all.

C. Hercules has broken forth again with words that certainly will not endear him to the common people nor anyone else. The Brooklyn magnate seems so constructed that he cannot hush his desires to gouge the public to the absolute limit. And so from time to time as he thinks out new schemes to extract dollars from fans, he continues to hurt the national game.

It was Ebbels who wanted to abolish—or practically abolish—the bleacher seat prices in all big league parks. He decided that fandom ought to pay 50 cents for the privilege of sitting in the blazing sun or drizzling rain—to watch a ball game from a place so remote from the real zone of activity that the combatants resemble pig mules. His calmer domed and less-grasping associates voted down his proposal.

The next move of C. Hercules was to allocate many of the Dodger fans by taxing them $5 for the same-view world series seats for which other club owners had asked only $3. Not only did Ebbels arouse a storm of protest in Brooklyn but elsewhere in the U. S. A. All of which has lost many fans who have become disgusted with money grabbing tactics.

And now he has a few new ideas on how the public can be pried loose each year from more money to enrich the magnate. The present 151-game schedule does not give him enough opportunity to rake in the tickets. Ebbels wants more—about 140 games more. Oh yes, that would cause the season to begin and end in the pneumonia periods—but C. Hercules doesn't worry. He wouldn't have to leave the elements. As to the ball players—poor! Slaves!

And C. Hercules finds that the world series isn't drawn out long enough to suit him. He would make it nine games instead of seven. That would insure five games for each series. The last one you know can be five games and C. Hercules was bitterly disappointed because his "split" was only a mere $22,052. Had it been a nine game affair, C. Hercules would have been in for six games at least.

Just to insure more money for himself—should his Dodgers accomplish the miracle of another pennant—C. Hercules would have the purse for the players limited. You see, he does not believe in the players getting so much. If favors were for the magnates. Perhaps if C. Hercules expressed his inner views on the matter, it would be found that he thinks $100 each is enough for the competing players—with the proviso that they must pay all of their own traveling expenses.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS OR BLAD- DER TROUBLES YOU

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act free. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

For any pain, burn, scald or bruise, apply Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—the household remedy. Two sizes 25c and 50c at all drug stores.

Money in Politics.

A prominent newspaper complains that the excessive expenditure of money in political campaigns "has become a scandal that ought quickly to be abated." It says, what is well known, that candidates for office in many instances spend more in their campaigns than the salary of the office, and declares that this must mean one of two things, either the candidate is so situated financially that the salary is no object or that he intends to recoup himself in office by actions that would not bear investigation. Another evil, according to the view taken by the protesting newspaper, and by many men as well, is that this lavish expenditure of money practically debars the poor man from running for office.

There is some basis for this complaint, and yet the condition is not quite so bad as it may appear. It is true that much money is spent in campaigning, and without doubt a great deal of it is spent to little purpose. But under present conditions there is a legitimate demand for substantial expenditures and this must be met by the candidates or their backers.

The direct primary is a very expensive affair, for the public and for candidates. The cost of a primary is practically as great as that of an election, and this bill the tax payers have to foot. But the candidates for nomination must get out among the voters and make themselves known. They must travel and they must advertise. Under the old convention system the selection of candidates was left to the delegates, and the expense was far less. Under the present system the candidate for a nomination who fails to make a personal appeal to the voters might as well not run.

Yet it is true that the expenditure of money does not cease with the work of nomination. It goes on to the end of the chapter, and it must be admitted that it is more lavish in many cases than it ought to be. Just where the remedy lies it is hard to tell. There is law enough pertaining to the subject, but it is a simple mind that does not believe that men find ways to spend all the money they want to in political work. Yet the election of poor men to office is by no means a thing of the past. It is still very common, showing that money is not yet the whole thing in politics, though without doubt it is more of a power than it should be. If the voters will keep their hands clean and their minds open the moneybags will not be able to run away with the country yet awhile.

Billy Sunday has opened his guns in Boston and the campaign against sin and the devil is in full blast. The "sent of kultur" is sitting up and taking notice. Mr. Sunday's sermons will afford a striking change to what intellectual Boston has been accustomed to listen to. The great tabernacle is crowded at every service and the famous evangelist is already reminding his hearers that it costs money to "run this thing."

Mr. Bryan announces that he is hereafter to interest himself in the cause of prohibition. So far as this can be advanced by oratory he will be a powerful aid and if he should be the prohibition candidate for president in 1920 he might come as near success as he did in any of his previous runs for that high office.

The American Federation of Labor is holding its annual convention at Baltimore and it is probable there will be enough outside of politics to take its attention. The recent election demonstrated clearly that the federation is not a political organization. And that this can be said is greatly to its credit.

An American airman who was killed at Verdun a few days ago left an estate of $500,000. He must have been in the business for his health. He certainly did not need the pay and was not obliged to take the risk that cost him his life.

The automobile has sidetracked the horse to a large extent, but not the New York horse show, which is now under way at Madison Square Garden. As long as there are women and good clothes horse shows will be held in New York.

A tremendous shortage of Thanksgiving turkeys is reported, but when the day comes there will be no lack of them for those who have the price. The "shortage" will be found chiefly in the pocketbook of the consumer.

Newspaper comment thus far indicates that the woman elected to Congress from Montana will be known as a congressman. But will it not seem a little queer to read of Miss Rankin, congressman from Montana?

President Butler of Columbia University says that institution is under-capitalized to the extent of $30,000,000. Most institutions and people of this country feel that they are under-capitalized.

It is a little early yet for most people to see any beauty in "the beautiful snow."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

New England in the Cabinet

(From the Boston Transcript.)
If New England is not represented in the new Cabinet, the Administration will forfeit an opportunity to make a politically doubtful corner of the country more doubtful if not Democratic. The defection from the Republican party throughout this section at the last election would have been larger had the Democratic managers harried to the appeal of their party leaders in the six New England states, and especially in Massachusetts. The potency of the slogan, "He kept us out of war," among New England farmers is shown in the returns from the districts where they hold the balance of voting power. Hitherto this element has been part of the backbone of the Republican party, but this year Republican gains came in the cities from American Democrats many of them foreign born or of foreign blood, who rallied to the support of American ideas at the expense of partisan affiliations. They deserve and they will receive conspicuous recognition in the reorganization of the Republican party which is already heralded. To meet this new alignment within the opposition, the Administration may well expect to find a Cabinet officer who will represent the sentiment of New England's new Democracy.

The last four years are the first period for a long time in which New England has been unrepresented in the Cabinet. The fact is the more surprising when we remember that five of the six New England states cast their electoral votes for the Democratic nominee for President in 1912. In the face of this victory the Democratic campaign this year was conducted on the apparent assumption that the Republican solidarity of New England was as impregnable as the Democratic solidarity of the south. Such is not the case. We shall be surprised to see the mistake of the Democratic campaign managers duplicated by the Administration in its second term. It ought to be a comparatively easy matter to dig Cabinet timber in this neck of the woods which will match the intense pacifist sentiment responsible for the Democratic gains in the New England states. It is less important, however, to the future of the Democratic party that the pacifism of New England should be recognized in the new Cabinet than that the New England Democracy should have a representative at the council table of the President. Had it not been for the courageous campaign waged by Henry Cabot Lodge in behalf of the Republican candidate, and with the disregard of his effort upon his own senatorial candidacy, the chances are that Massachusetts would have been found in the Democratic column when the returns were known one week ago today. The senator risked his own reelection in behalf of the national standard bearer of his party and thereby unselctively sacrificed his opportunity to top the ticket.

Formal details have abounded in the Washington despatches of the last few days that there was any desire on the part of the President for the resignation of any member of his Cabinet. We may accept such details at their face value and still look for Cabinet changes. The hope of the Democratic accession depends upon the ability of the President to keep beneath his personal strength to his party. It was the Democratic President who carried his party to victory last week, and that party must inherit its strength and thereby nationalize its own influence if it is to duplicate its triumph four years hence. One way to accomplish this is to nationalize the personnel of the party's leadership. A beginning in this direction can be made by making the new Cabinet national in its personnel, where today it is sectional. The solidarity of the Democratic South does not depend upon Cabinet recognition. It is built upon an ancient prejudice. The new solidarity of the Democratic Far West and the break in the solidarity of Republican New England is due to present conviction held at the expense of an old-time faith, not without a streak of prejudice. It would be ungrateful if not ungrateful to deprive the south of all representation in the new Cabinet, but it would neither be unreasonable nor bad politics to reduce the number of its southern members and replace those who retire by Democrats from the Far West, from New England and from doubtful states north of Mason and Dixon's line, who represent the sentiment for which the President stood in the recent campaign and upon which his party must build for the future. Irrespective, however, of its effect on either party, there is this to remember: Whatever breaks up the old solidarity of sectionalism will build up, sooner or later, the new solidarity of the nation.

(From the Baltimore American, Rep.)
There will be plenty of jokes about the lady congressman from Montana, but if she is not treated with the same respect by the men representatives on the floor of the House as she would be in the parlors of their wives, and if she has not the same chance as themselves to exercise her constitutional and political rights, and if she is not listened to when she speaks, then there will be a revolution in American manhood which is practically impossible.

Meaning of the Utah Vote

(From the Springfield Republican.)
When somebody gets ready to explain the political revolution in Utah, it may be hoped it will appear that the Mormon church has been invited to retire from politics. A non-Mormon governor was elected while Wilson was winning the state's electoral vote.

A Political Puzzle

(From the Springfield Republican.)
There are Ohio, Indiana and Illinois in a row. At one end, goes for Wilson by 75,000; Illinois, at the other end, goes for Hughes by nearly 200,000; and Indiana, in the middle, barely goes for Hughes by some 6000. Who can explain the marked differences in the present politics of these three states, which are so much alike in population and economic interests?

Quit Rag Chewing

(Rev. S. Parkes Cadman to the Bedford Branch, Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn.)
Instead of speculating in any man's future, let us be busily employed building up a little personal character, a better personal service. Far less is accomplished by political changes than the average man supposes. Leave the Colonel alone. He will find something to do. I have never known him to be idle. As to 1920, I am not a prophet, but we cannot build up a kingdom of God through politics. We should be more generous toward all men. Teddy came back, but he did not bring all the wandering sheep with him. We can do much better with our time than to be standing on the corners and chewing the everlasting rag about California.

How Berlin Feels the War

(From the New York World.)
Forty thousand vacant houses in Berlin, equivalent in percentage to more than 90,000 in New York, afford one proof and test of the havoc of war and doubtless London and especially Paris have similar troubles. New York has seen some hard times, and not seldom have builders outrun the market for new structures, but never anything like that!

Seen in a Distant War Camp

(Press Association War Special in Glasgow Herald.)
In the internment camp at Tabora, in German East Africa, the British forces found a large number of British prisoners of war, most of whom had been interned for the two years of the war. Among them was Archdeacon Woodward, who has been associated with the East African missionary movement since 1876. The archdeacon, who was seriously ill, was on the point of sailing for England when he was taken prisoner. Altogether there were over one hundred British subjects, including several women, among the prisoners. The conditions of the camp were appalling. European men and women were herded together with natives, the sanitary arrangements were unspeakable, and several prisoners died. The British troops supplied the released prisoners with food, and arranged for their repatriation. Until he was discovered at Tabora nothing had been heard of Archdeacon Woodward for two years.

A Shoe Trade School

(From the Lynn Item.)
Ralph S. Bauer and the Chamber of Commerce are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts to secure a shoemaking trade school for the city of Lynn. No proposition before the people was ever so forth more clearly than were the merits of the trade school placed before the people of Lynn in the series of articles that appeared in the Item. There are still some advocates of the old method of teaching the trade of the shoemaker, but such a way for learning the trade is not now easily obtainable, for the day of speciality is here to stay. The man who is a huster, or a channeller, or a McKay stitcher, or any one of the score or more of divisions of the trade is rarely competent for the position of foreman or superintendent. The boy or the girl who is ambitious to be something more than a mere cog in the machinery of shoe production will find in the trade school just what they need.

GETTING READY FOR BIG FIGHT

Industrial War in Sight and Both Sides Making Ready.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, Nov. 17.—The nationwide fight over the eight hour law, centered in Washington today as labor and capital leaders came here to prepare for the greatest industrial fight of years. The business men of the country, as represented by the National Council of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce went into session here today to register their sentiment against the eight hour law. The National Commission also will outline its view. Representatives of every phase of the dispute began to gather in this city to attend the opening of the convention.

to prepare them for responsible positions. Lynn has been long in need of just such an institution, and by the vote it will be available.

The Tragedy of a Queen

(From the New York Mail.)
Captive kings, queens and potentates to the chariot wheels of Roman consuls, furnished spectacles to the Roman mob in its heyday.

Uncle Sam has had his dattos, his sultans of Sulu, his Siting Bulls and his Geronimos. He also has his captive queen. She never was tied to a chariot wheel, because Uncle Sam does not ride in chariots. But she has had a very hard time since she surrendered her sovereignty under the folds of the Stars and Stripes. Her name is Liliuokalani. She used to be queen of Hawaii.

When the sons of the missionaries who had taught Christianity to the Hawaiian Kanakas decided that the time was ripe, they stepped in and took her throne and her country away from her. That was "way back in 1893. When the sons of the missionaries took her throne away from her, somebody made her a promise that her property would be respected. With childlike faith this swarthy queen, who is a poet and a musician, took the promise seriously. The property consisted of about a million acres of good Hawaiian land.

Ever since 1893 Liliuokalani has been trying to get hold of somebody who would carry out the promise made to her. She even came to Washington to remind Uncle Sam of that promise. She wandered from department to department, entreating, imploring, begging, arguing, quoting the law and the prophets.

But all her pleadings have been of no avail. She has spent her last cent in her quest for her rights. She has become a pathetic figure before all the world. But the million acres of good Hawaiian land are too good to be returned to her. Uncle Sam needs them in his business. Such a treasure could not be entrusted to a queen who happened to have a swarthy skin.

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani now lies dying in Honolulu. Doubtless she will get abandoned hope that somebody will do her justice. And doubtless she will go to her grave with that hope.

Daughter Tells Mother What to Do.

(From the Bangor Commercial.)
Massachusetts voters signified their desires for a constitutional convention and such will be held next year. While the opponents of the measure took the position that any necessary changes could be effected without a convention, this view did not hold with the voters. It is now up to Massachusetts to move so wisely that some good will be accomplished but to obtain such a result, it will be necessary for the delegates who will be elected to the convention to refrain from tampering in the changes from legislation or measures doubtful of public support for unless they do so refrain they will meet with the same experience that was met in New York State where the proposed new constitution was buried under an avalanche of opposing votes.

No Eight-Hour Law Yet

(From the Tampa State Journal.)
Now that the railroads have taken the Adamson law to the courts to test its constitutionality it is certain that this law will be a dead letter, at any rate for a considerable time to come. The bigger the case the more slowly it moves through the courts.

Wants Them to Meet a Regular Team
Sporting Editor:
I wish to take up a small space in your paper in reference to the recent howling contest between the General Store team and that of the second team of the Industrial Department. Since the victory of the store men I notice much expansion of the chest and by the hunch made over the defeat of the Industrial team, one would think the five howlers from the other department were world beaters.

Before they do any more crowing over the game of Wednesday and declare themselves champions, would it not be well to meet the first team of the Industrial Department and learn something about the game? I am casting no reflections on the work of the second team which met the store hands, as they did very creditable work. However, I would suggest that before the store bowlers hang any more sculps in their wigwag they go up against a regular team for fun, money, or marbles.

Wants Them to Meet a Regular Team
Sporting Editor:
I wish to take up a small space in your paper in reference to the recent howling contest between the General Store team and that of the second team of the Industrial Department. Since the victory of the store men I notice much expansion of the chest and by the hunch made over the defeat of the Industrial team, one would think the five howlers from the other department were world beaters.

Before they do any more crowing over the game of Wednesday and declare themselves champions, would it not be well to meet the first team of the Industrial Department and learn something about the game? I am casting no reflections on the work of the second team which met the store hands, as they did very creditable work. However, I would suggest that before the store bowlers hang any more sculps in their wigwag they go up against a regular team for fun, money, or marbles.

NOTED SUMMER RESIDENT OF YORK BEACH DEAD

Bernard O'Donnell, 68, Passes Away at His Home in Brooklyn.

Bernard O'Donnell, for many years a summer resident of York Beach, died recently at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 68. Deceased was one of the most noted musicians of Great New York and for 33 years was instructor of music in the public schools of Brooklyn.

Mr. O'Donnell was born in the downtown section of old New York City and was educated as a musician and organist by Samuel Warren, the famous organist of Grace P. E. church in Manhattan. At the age of sixteen years he became organist of the old St. Lawrence R. C. church in the Bronx, and later, coming to Brooklyn, became the organist of St. Patrick's church. He played the organ at the opening of St. Patrick's Cathedral in Manhattan.

Mr. O'Donnell had been a resident of Brooklyn for 25 years, and as a musical instructor was much beloved by all the pupils of the public schools who came under his care. He was of a kindly, sympathetic nature, and won the confidence and friendship of his pupils from the start. He was the musical instructor in the eastern district high school from the time the school was opened until he retired about six years ago. He was a member of the Brooklyn Teachers' association and a member of the advisory board of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

Mr. O'Donnell was first stricken at his summer home York Beach, on October 9, and was later removed to his Brooklyn residence No. 213 Franklin avenue. With Mrs. O'Donnell, who survives, he was much interested in the work of the Catholic church at York Beach and was instrumental in haying it built. His wife, Helen Fitzpatrick O'Donnell, is a well known lecturer on Irish music.

PEACE SOCIETY AT CONCORD

Arrange for Next Meeting at Exeter—Interesting Program.

Concord, Nov. 16.—The New Hampshire Peace Society at a special meeting today voted to accept the invitation of Prof. J. A. Tafts of Phillips Exeter Academy and to hold its annual meeting in Exeter next February.

The meeting today which was held in the City Y. M. C. A. was well attended and the constitution was revised to conform with that of the American Peace Society. Miss Mary N. Chase and Rev. Edward A. Tuck were appointed a committee to bring in a nomination at the annual meeting for the president of the society, to succeed Prof. Ernest P. Nichols, formerly of Dartmouth who resigned during the year owing to his removal from the state. Leonard H. Pillsbury of Derry, a vice president of the society presided at the meeting this afternoon which was for members only and Dr. James T. Tyron, New England director of the American Peace Society gave an interesting account of the conference of peace workers which was held recently in New York City.

Dr. Tyron is in New Hampshire in the interest of the national society and during his stay here will address audiences in more than 20 cities and towns, the secretary of the state society having arranged dates for him to that extent.

An account of her endeavors in starting a correspondence between the students at Proctor academy at New London with students in South America was given by Miss Mary N. Chase, secretary of the State Peace society, she having been put in charge of the movement in the academy by Professor Clayton, the principal.

Owing to the differences in languages her attempts met with meagre results, she informed her listeners, only one school in Barranquilla, Colombia, making any response, letters now being exchanged quite frequently.

Through Wilson J. Gill, author of "The School Republic," Miss Chase finally learned that the Argentinean ambassador to this country, H. S. Naon, was interested. In such a movement and immediately she wrote to him. A reply was received by her saying that he very willingly would act as an official translator for Proctor academy and his schools of Argentina, which facilitated matters considerably and he allowed a correspondence between the New Hampshire Academy and the South American country.

The letter from the ambassador follows:

The evening session of the society was held in the Pleasant street Baptist church. The edifice was well filled with people interested in the movement for international peace and the addresses were listened to with more than usual interest.

The principal speaker of the meeting was Dr. Tyron and his subject was, "A Minimum Program." The movement for peace and the work of the national and state societies towards this end was such that the people in the future generations if not of this one, would appreciate it, he informed his audience. Mr. Tyron gave his views of the work as it should be carried on in different localities and offered many suggestions to the workers in the movement.

Among the other speakers tonight were Rev. H. C. McDougall of Franklin, Rev. John E. Shively of Laconia, and Hon. William E. Chandler of this city. The meeting was presided over by William W. Thayer. Short discussions followed each address.

MINORITY HOLDERS
FILE BILLB. & M. Stockholders Make Charges Against Directors.

Boston, Nov. 16.—A bill of particulars setting forth 14 specifications of alleged collusion, breach of duty and other unlawful acts on the part of the directors of the Boston and Maine railroad in regard to the receivership proceedings now pending against the road was filed today in the federal court by Asa L. French, counsel for Frank V. Streeter and the estate of Samuel G. Lawrence, minority stockholders.

The specifications charge the directors with breach of duty in assenting to the receivership without the previous sanction of the stockholders and with collusion in the alleged secret connivance with one of the railroad's creditors to force upon the stockholders, under cover of receivership, a scheme of reorganization that would be detrimental to stockholders' interests. The recent ratification of the directors' action by a majority of the stockholders was illegal, according to the contestants.

A hearing has been set for December 5.

NAVY MUST HAVE
OIL FIELDSGovernment Must Protect Oil
Supply or Oil Burning Ship
Must Go.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The life of the U. S. navy is at stake in the effort to obtain government control of the California petroleum reserves. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt asserted in a paper read tonight before the annual meeting here of the American Mining Congress.

"It may be set down as a definite conclusion," said the paper "that the navy cannot revert to coal burning vessels, without enormous loss of efficiency, and furthermore that the navy will not so revert."

The article is the navy department's opening attack in the renewal in the fight in congress over the Phelan amendment to the General Oil Land bill designed to protect the claims of California operators. Navy officials have insisted that the policy of building oil burning ships could not be carried out if the amendment prevailed and Secretary Daniels appealed directly to President Wilson when action seemed imminent during the last session of congress.

Mr. Roosevelt's paper declared that oil fuel for the navy meant increased speed and cruising radius, control of smoke for smoke screens, reduced fire room forces by 55 per cent, refuelling at sea with an increased efficiency of 25 per cent; ability to sustain maximum speed for long periods of time without clogging furnaces, flexibility in speed, and finally, greater safety from submarines, as in modern American ships that the fuel oil is disposed along the bottom to cushion blow of exploding torpedoes.

The 35-knot battle cruisers, scouts and destroyers authorized by congress, could not be built, the paper asserted if coal fuel was to be employed.

"It is estimated," the paper continued "that the navy should have on hand in time of peace storage tanks capable of holding a full two years' supply for the fleet in war time. For our present needs we should have probably 2,000,000 barrels so stored. Ten years hence we ought to have 200,000,000 barrels."

"Oil men are much inclined to ridicule the idea that there can ever be a shortage of oil for naval needs. They base this perhaps on lack of knowledge of what our future needs are to be. The navy burns today in time of peace about 812,000 barrels a year. The construction of ships already authorized by congress will call for an additional consumption of 6,721,000 barrels in 1923."

If battleships are to be replaced as planned after 20 years' service, the paper stated, the annual consumption would rise to 10,237,000 barrels in ten years.

Mr. Roosevelt said the navy was content that every justifiable claim against the reserved lands should be compensated, "but they must cease to remove oil from these lands." There was no question he said that a fair method of adjustment could be found.

ver bulletin.

The decision to start was made quickly and few saw the submarine speed down the harbor with her decks awash.

United States inspectors William E. Whitney and Harry Hunkin this morning began an investigation of the cause of the accident.

Washington Orders Investigation

Washington, Nov. 17.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels ordered an investigation made in the Deutschland-tug collision at New London, also whether an attempt had been made to destroy the submarine. Secretary Daniels ordered Rear Admiral Albert W. Grant, commander of the cruiser Columbia which was stationed near New London to preserve neutrality and to report the facts to him at once.

New London, Nov. 17.—The Deutschland, the German submarine which arrived here on November 1, slipped out of the harbor at an early hour today, bound for Bremen. She left her packet at the state pier at 1.30 o'clock and was towed down the harbor by two tugs.

Captain P. Hinch and other officials of the Eastern Forwarding company were on one of the tugs. A launch filled with newspapermen followed the submarine down the T. Thames river to the mouth of the harbor.

While the manifest of the Deutschland's cargo has not yet been made public, it is estimated that its approximate value is over $2,000,000. The cargo consists largely of crude rubber, nickel, zinc and silver bars. She also carries several sacks of mail from the German embassy at Washington. Some of the mail was said to be for the German emperor.

The Deutschland arrived in New London, Nov. 1, for her second trip to this country. The first record-making voyage was to Baltimore last summer. On her trip here the craft brought a cargo estimated at $100,000. The freight was composed of dyes, chemicals and medicines, besides securities and bonds.

The Deutschland passed the U. S. cruiser Columbia in the lower harbor at 1.45 a. m. Several passing steamers and the Columbia turned their searchlights on the boat, and blew their whistles.

Unusual activity at the state pier tonight indicated that the time was near at hand for the departure of the German submarine freighter.

At ten o'clock lights on the pier were darkened; there was signalling by means of red lights and a launch from the North German Lloyd liner Wilhelm went down the harbor.

Two tugs owned by the A. A. Scott Wrecking Company steamed up the harbor to the pier at 1 a. m. The Scott company is a sub-agent of the Eastern Forwarding Company, and one of its tugs met the Deutschland when she arrived here.

Shortly before midnight the great steel net that guarded the entrance to the packet was pulled up on the pier. A dozen sailors from the Wilhelm pointed the force of the guards and all persons were warned to keep away from the wharf. A plank was hurled at a newspaper man who ventured too close to the warehouse. Water was squirted upon other venture. Some persons who did not move when ordered.

The actions of the U. S. cruiser Columbia, who anchored off Eastern Point late today, excited considerable comment tonight. Her searchlights played over the waters of the lower harbor incessantly during the night. In some circles the story was advanced that the Columbia's mission was to see that the neutrality laws were observed.

Some excitement was caused early in the evening when the report was circulated that a man with a stick of dynamite had eluded the guards and entered the stockade which guards the Deutschland. The police said this incident had not been reported to and efforts to verify it from officials of the Eastern Forwarding Company were unavailing.

WAS FORMER
NAVY YARDDeath of R. R. Buck Causes
Investigation of Canned Food.

The death of R. R. Buck, a radio operator, recently stationed at the Portsmouth navy yard wireless station has caused the Department of Commerce to make a thorough investigation as to the quality of canned foods used aboard Diamond Shoals Lightship No. 71. Another of the ship's crew, Andrew Thistle, had previously died under alarming circumstances. Following the death of these two men, Seaman U. Kemp was taken very ill.

Kemp and Buck, together with the body of Thistle were brought to Norfolk on the torpedo boat destroyer Cushing, which was sent to the lightship from the navy yard to answer to a call from Buck Island that a doctor be sent immediately as several men aboard were taken suddenly ill.

When the Cushing reached the ship the mate was dead.

On reaching Norfolk Kemp was sent to St. Vincent's hospital suffering violently with dysentery, and Buck was sent to the naval hospital in Portsmouth, Va., where he died last Wednesday, Nov. 8.

The body of Mate Thistle was sent to Baltimore where his wife and several children made their home. He had been in the lighthouse service 30 years.

At the naval hospital it was stated today that Buck was a victim of appendicitis which was followed by peritonitis.

At St. Vincent's hospital it was stated that Kemp had improved but is still confined to his bed.

Kemp attributed the death of the mate and his own illness to canned food which was used aboard the ship. Other men aboard, were made ill, he said, but not seriously so.

The Department of Commerce it is understood has representatives on the spot making an investigation of the facts with a view of ascertaining if canned foods caused the mate's death and made others ill. It is understood also that the packing company which has a large contract with the government, also has representatives on hand making an investigation to determine if the food was at fault.

LEON RICE BREAKS UP

POKER GAME IN FAR WEST

That music hall charms is illustrated in an incident that took place recently, with Leon Rice, the dramatic tenor of the Rice-Gish Trio, as the principal actor. The singing of this young tenor never fails to delight his audiences whether in critical New York or in western mining towns.

While spending a vacation in Colorado, 20 miles from the nearest station, Mr. Rice visited a gold mine located in a mountain at an altitude of 12,000 feet. In order to reach the mine he had to ascend the side of the mountain in an ore bucket suspended from a cable. This trip occupied about half an hour, and on arriving safely at the camp Mr. Rice changed his clothes for those of a miner and after riding in a mule car half a mile into the heart of the mountain, he descended the shaft to where the miners were working.

Reaching the surface after an hour spent in the mine, Mr. Rice volunteered to sing for the men when the day's work was finished. About 50 miners gathered in the dining room and Mr. Rice gave a concert program, using a one-lung parlor organ for his accompaniment.

Across the canyon 300 yards distant a poker game was in progress in another camp. As Mr. Rice's powerful voice rang out in this mountain wilderness, the poker game terminated abruptly and the miners came scrambling across to see what was going on at the Taylor Mountain camp. When they arrived Mr. Rice had to give the concert all over again for their benefit as they said that they had not been there for all of the first one. In appreciation of Mr. Rice's efforts they presented him with a gold nugget of peculiar shape, its outline suggesting the head of a lion. They also gave him three, rounding good cheers and all marched up shaking his hand as they went. Mr. Rice says that his hand ached for several days afterward from the grip of those miners. Mr. Rice will be heard here with the Rice-Gish Trio in a program of rare excellence at the Middle River Baptist church Tuesday evening, November 21.

of the entire floor. On the left is the pool and billiard room, containing three fine pool tables and a billiard table. The tables, with the exception of one, which came from the old quarters on State street, are gifts. The billiard table is the gift of Mrs. Wendell Barrett of New Castle, and the two new pool tables were the gifts of Mrs. E. E. Foster and Captain Hill. This floor is lighted by the indirect and semi-indirect lighting system and the effect is as pleasing as it is satisfactory. The electric fixtures are attractive, the plates being white suspended from the ceilings with brass chains.

On the right of the entrance in the game room, comfortable chairs being placed about the room and a number of tables, with chess boards built into them, and a number of individual writing desks. This is a large room lighted by four windows on one side, and three on the other. In this room is located two telephone booths in which a pay station and a local line has been installed. One of the many attractive features of this game room is the massive open fireplace.

Leading from the game room is the library and writing room. The walls of this are lined with section book cases, and its center is occupied by a long table and several double writing desks. Over the book cases a number of oil paintings of various American ships are hung. These paintings are the work of one of the enlisted men in the service, attached to the U. S. S. Southern, and include paintings of the Maine, the Pennsylvania, the Kearsarge, the old Constitution, and the Olympia. The room is furnished in mahogany.

Leading from the first to the second floor is a wide staircase and on this floor are located the auditorium and ten sleeping rooms. The auditorium is equipped with a stage and has a seating capacity of about 150. A large number of cot beds are installed here for use of men desiring them for the night and when the room is in use for entertainments these cots will be stored in the big storeroom on the fourth floor. All of the rooms on this floor are furnished by private subscription, in memory of those departed or themselves. They are all furnished uniformly and contain a brass bed, chair and dresser, the chair and dresser being in mission style. They are all electrically lighted and steam heated. On the floor of each is a brass plate with the name in whose memory the room stands. Room No. 1 was furnished by Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, Captain William H. Howard, U. S. N., donated the furnishings of room No. 2. The other eight are furnished in memory of the following: Mrs. F. J. Hill, wife of Chief Postmaster H. H. Hill, U. S. N.; Major General A. W. Whipple, U. S. A.; and Lieutenant David Whipple, U. S. M. C.; Col. John Pitts Shorburne, U. S. A.; Emma C. B. Hovey, U. S. N.; Rear Admiral J. M. Miller, U. S. N.; Rear Admiral Asa Walker, U. S. N.; and Major S. E. Barrett, U. S. N. Showers are located on this floor as well as on the third floor and in the basement. These rooms may be rented by the day or week for a nominal sum to enlisted men in any of the branches of the service.

The third floor contains thirteen more rooms, the same size as those on the second, and they are as comfortably furnished. These rooms are equipped with iron beds, a chair and dresser. They are steam heated and lighted by electricity.

With the exception of the few paintings of warships there is nothing to remind the men that the club is connected in any way with the service, as has been a great fault of the majority of similar enterprises in other cities. The entire building is "owned" by the men, to use for play, recreation and a home while in the city. In the basement 125 steel lockers of comfortable size are located and these are owned by the men for a year or a month, as they desire, on payment of a small sum.

The building is finely constructed throughout and the furnishings, both those purchased by the association and the many gifts, are all in excellent taste, placed with the one object of making the club homelike and comfortable.

Through an inadvertency many members of the association failed to receive their invitations to visit the home on the first days. While the officers regret that this was so they wish to extend a cordial invitation to all members and to all who are interested, to visit the building at any time. Captain Hill said yesterday that all visitors would be made welcome and would be given an opportunity to inspect the building at any time they cared.

BOY MISSING SEVERAL DAYS

Groveland Man Reports Disappearance of Lad Aged 13 Years.

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 16.—(Continued) A boy, aged 13 of Main street, Groveland, has disappeared from home and his father and mother have appealed to Chief of Police Stevens to locate the boy, who has not been seen since Tuesday morning when he started for school.

At the usual hour the youngster left home to go to school. Shortly before the classes opened he was seen at Pike's corner, but no further trace of him has been found. His teacher told Chief Stevens that he had not been at school and the father said the boy did not come home that night.

When he left home the boy wore a brown sweater and corduroy trousers. He is large for his age, has brown hair and eyes and a ruddy complexion.

DANDRUFF GOES! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments. Try This!

Hair stops coming out and every particle of dandruff disappears.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

AT THE PRINCIPAL BOSTON THEATRES

NAZIMOVA

In "War Brides," a Remarkable Moving Picture, at Globe Theatre, Boston, Next Week Nov. 20.

"War Brides," the first production by the Herbert Brenon Film Corporation for Selznick-Pictures, will be seen at the Globe Theatre on next week, beginning Monday, Nov. 20th. The performances are continuous from 10 a. m. to 10.30 p. m.

This photoplay will introduce to "moving picture" patrons a new star, Nazimova. Well known on the stage, she is now making her debut on the screen in a film version of the play, by Marion Craig Wentworth, in which she made a sensational success in vaudeville. She had refused all offers until she saw "A Daughter of the Gods" which Brenon wrote and directed, and was so charmed by the work that she signed a contract to appear under his direction.

"War Brides" is an intensely dramatic story, but while it has do with conditions brought about by war, there are no battle scenes. A trench is shown and the effect of the fighting upon the troops, but no battle scene is enacted. The main story has to do with the sufferings of the women at home. Joan, the young widow, defies the military authorities, and urges the young women of the village to refuse to become brides of the departing soldiers. She is imprisoned, but escapes, and leads a band of mourning women to meet the King and protest against war. Her own individual message she delivers in a most dramatic manner.

Herbert Brenon has excelled himself in this production. His previous successes, "Neptune's Daughter," "The Soul of Broadway," "The Clemenceau Case," "The Krentzer Sonata," and others, have won for him a reputation second to that of no other director in the world, and he stakes his reputation upon "War Brides" as his greatest work down to the present.

LEW FIELDS IN "STEP THIS WAY"

Lew Fields is coming to the Majestic Theatre, Boston, next Monday evening (Nov. 20), for a limited engagement, in his new musical comedy, "Step This Way," which has to its credit a very successful New York and Chicago run. That Lew Fields, of the vaudeville comedians, should have effected the process of elimination as it were, and still retain his brilliancy as a star, speaks volumes for his genius. He alone still heads his own organization season after season, and his return to Boston in his new funny musical comedy should call forth his army of admirers. In the role of "Henry Schmitt" Lew Fields has a character such as no delight to portray, and one in which his followers love to see him. As the comedian says, he is a "multiplied millionaire," and having risen from poverty to affluence at a bound, it wreathes his heart and purse strings to have his extravagant wife throw his money to the winds, as it were. Alice Fischer, in the opposite role to Lew Fields, is called to bring all of her splendid abilities as a comedienne to this scene, and the miraculous results attained may well be imagined. There are many long, funny episodes in the two acts of "Step This Way," the one with the waiters in the second act being extremely ludicrous. Lew Fields has seen to it that his supporting company numbers the best entertainers it has been possible to engage, and in leading parts will be found Alice Fischer, above mentioned, Marguerite Farrell, pianist, singer and dancer, Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman, the well-known vaudeville headliners, Elizabeth Wood, prima donna, Edward Bassil, baritone, Tristie Smith and Virginia Richardson, stately society swells. Sam Dedy, Charles Mitchell, Richard Fanning, Vaughn Trevor, comedians and the "Eight High Steppers," a dancing act from "Somewhere in Europe." The typical Lew Fields heavy of beauty chorus will be in evidence. The costume and staging will be in keeping with the high standard of the production. An augmented orchestra under the able leadership of Mr. Anton Heidl will render the tuneful score of "Step This Way."

"THE CINDERELLA MAN"

Second Week at Ye Wilbur Theatre, Boston, Begins Next Monday, November 20.

That most delightful comedy "The Cinderella Man," was one of the charms of the past New York season, where it played continually from January, till June at the Hudson Theatre. It is now playing its first week in Boston presented by Oliver Morosco, the producer of "Peg O' My Heart" and the "Bird of Paradise." It took up the trail of popularity which "Peg O' My Heart" left off and still remains the delight of all who see it. The charming comedy written by Edward Childs Carpenter will continue to be the attraction at Ye Wilbur Theatre, the second week beginning Monday, November 20, and will be presented by the same typical cast which, from the Hudson Theatre New York, where Maltupan critics said it to be the best balanced cast of any play last season. Being typically American it has the two great national characteristics—imagination and humor. The story tells of Marguerite Chana, who has lost her mother; she has never seen her father as her parents were separated when she was a baby and she has been abroad under her mother's care.

The Hudson Theatre cast which will appear here includes—Shelley Hull, Phoebe Foster, Frank Bacon, Horton Churchill, Reginald Mason, Charles Lane, Theodore Hackett, Hubert Wilke, Fredrick T. Moore, Louise Rio and others.

"VERY GOOD EDDIE"

15th Week in Boston, and 2nd Week at Plymouth Theatre, Starts Next Monday, Nov. 20.

Although the performance of "Very Good Eddie" at the Plymouth Theatre on Monday night marked the beginning of the 14th week of this merry musical farce in Boston, the audience displayed all the enthusiasm of an opening night. This speaks very well for this joyous piece which had been charming Boston for nearly four months at the Wilbur, and which was moved over to the Plymouth because the demand for seats was so strong the management did not have the heart to take the attraction out of town. The Wilbur Theatre would have been glad to continue "Very Good Eddie," but it had signed contracts for another attraction early in the season and was compelled to let this merrily hit depart. However, Boston will have an opportunity for three more weeks to revel in the songs and humor of this merry piece, but at the end of that time "Eddie" must proceed to Philadelphia which has not yet seen this marvellous frolic.

In moving over to the Plymouth Theatre, "Very Good Eddie" took all his pots and pans and all his good and chattels, and the show is the same in every particular as that which has been pleasing Boston right along. There is not a single change in the cast. Ernest Truex and Alice Dovey are as delightful as ever in the roles of the shy bride and groom; Oscar Shaw and Ann Orr are still the youthful lovers; Harry Link and Magna Paxton are the same dominating newlyweds; Deanna Maley is still funny as the hotel clerk and Florence Sarte is the same eccentric music teacher. And there are all the other principals, including Julia Mills, Jean DeBrie, William Reardon, Inez Hall, James Ford, and the same swaggy beauty chorus which makes this show such a delight to the eye and the ear. All the song hits of the piece, of which there are nearly a song, were applauded as they were the opening night of the piece four months ago. The 15th week in Boston begins at the Plymouth Theatre next Monday, November 20th.

BRYAN HAVING PORTRAIT PAINTED FOR WASHINGTON

New York, Nov. 16.—A New York artist is painting a portrait of William Jennings Bryan to hang on the walls of the department of state at Washington beside the portraits of other former secretaries of state. Several months ago Mr. Bryan was asked to have an artist to paint his portrait, but accompanying in the west caused a postponement of the work until he came to New York after election.

SABBATH IN WAY SO POSTPONE NEW YEAR'S EVE ORGIE

N.Y. RESTAURATEURS NOT TO BE
CHEATED OUT OF WINE RE-CEIPTS BY CALENDAR.

New York, Nov. 15.—Proprietors of the large hotels yesterday decided to forego the usual New Year's Eve celebration because Dec. 31 falls on Sunday. It was proposed to celebrate New Year "in somewhat the same manner as has been customary to celebrate New Year's Eve," on Monday night, Jan. 1. A resolution to that effect was adopted at a meeting of the executive committee of the Hotel Association of New York city yesterday.

The Society of Restaurateurs is composed of the large restaurants and cabaret proprietors.

The hotel men, following the adoption of their resolution yesterday, made an appeal to the public to enter into the spirit of postponement of festivities and celebrate Monday night. The state excise law permits hotels to sell liquor to their guests from 12 to 1 o'clock Monday morning, a privilege which the law does not extend to restaurants, where it cannot be sold until 6 o'clock Monday morning. This, however, the hotel managers consider entirely too short a period for a jollification in the customary manner.

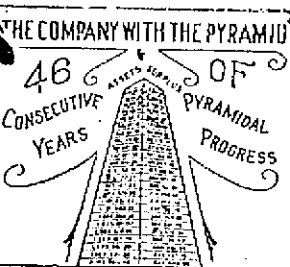

The resolution adopted by the Hotel Association was telegraphed to hotels in other cities, many queries having been received as to when the New Year's Eve would be celebrated. New York hotels would celebrate New Year's Eve, George C. Holt, proprietor of the Waldorf, said.

"We have no desire to come in conflict with the law. The law seems just in reference to what is permissible on Sunday nights, and while many who have been in the habit of seeing the New Year in at the big hotels and restaurants may consider the lack of facilities to celebrate as usual a hardship we are going to observe the Sunday law."

NEW COMMANDANT'S FOR HUSBANDS AND WIVES

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 15.—To insure perfect happiness, says the Rev. Frank E. Hildebrand, pastor of the Second Baptist church here, married couples should obey ten matrimonial commandments for husbands and the same number for wives. These commandments are:

- For Husbands
- 1—Thou shalt not think that thyself are "it."
  - 2—Thou shalt not praise thy neighbor's wife; praise thy own.
  - 3—Thou shalt not be stingy with thy wife.
  - 4—Thou shalt not share thy love for thy wife with the booze shop. She deserves it all.
  - 5—Thou shalt not keep any secrets from thy wife. Secrets breed suspicion and wreck confidence.
  - 6—Thou shalt not refuse to talk with thy wife after the day's work is done.
  - 7—Thou shalt not fail to provide life insurance for thy family.
  - 8—Thou shalt not scold thy wife when the meat burns. Blow up a powder mill instead.
  - 9—Thou shalt not fail to kiss thy wife good bye every morning.
  - 10—Thou shalt not forget, through all the years of thy life that thy wife whom God has given thee as thy companion is thy superior.
- For Wives
- 1—Thou shalt not be spendthrift. Do not squander thy husband's money.
  - 2—Thou shalt not talk shop with thy husband when he returns at night.
  - 3—Thou shalt not fail to have his meals on time.
  - 4—Thou shalt not quiz thy wedded husband. Be patient and he will tell the all.
  - 5—Thou shalt not nag thy wedded husband. Hit him with an axe. It is more kind.
  - 6—Thou shalt not fail to dress up for thy husband as thou didst before marriage.
  - 7—Thou shalt not try to fight thy husband. Crying will fetch him sooner.
  - 8—Thou shalt not expect thy husband to apologize even when he is wrong. Let it pass.
  - 9—Thou shalt not hesitate to assure thy husband that he is the greatest man alive, and that thou dost admire him more than Roosevelt or Hughes.
  - 10—Thou shalt not remind thy husband what a great sacrifice thou didst make to marry him.

THE UNITED STATES PROMISES TO BE THE GREAT FINANCIAL POWER AFTER THE WAR

The powerful position foreshadowed for the United States on the international market contrasts somewhat strangely with the familiar prophecies of a weak and helpless American market at the end of war, watching despondently the drawing away of its resources by the outside world. It will always be possible that European markets will bid so high for capital as to get it from us, despite offers in the market for exchange. Professor Irving Fisher has predicted very positively that after the war, "all Europe will be in the position of a new country, poor in immediate comforts but relatively rich in future expectations" and that "such a condition will make for a high rate of interest." This may be true, in so far as regards the borrowings of governments; yet all previous experience has also gone to show that high money rates on ordinary commercial loans come only with active business. Hence, however, this curious dilemma—if trade is active in Europe after the war and European money rates high, then the prospect for the "dumping" of European merchandise on our markets is accordingly decreased. But if prolonged business prostration in Europe is a consequence, the inducement for selling merchandise to America will doubtless be relatively greater but the natural machinery for depleting our capital will not exist.—Alexander Dana Noyes, in the "Financial World" of the December Scribner.

TOOTHBRUSH FAMINE LATEST RESULT OF WAR

St. Paul, Nov. 15.—Here's the most unkindliest cut of all war has inflicted on innocent neutrals.

It is robbing us of our tooth brushes. Russians have too much on hand to spend time hunting wild bears and Frenchmen are too occupied to arrange the tough bear bristles in ivory handles. Even if the Russians could supply the brushes and the French had time to mount them it wouldn't help much because all the European toothbrush factories have been seized or destroyed by the Germans.

All this is vouchsafed for by Dr. H. D. Aldrich, who at the Cleveland school talked to school nurses who will help conduct "toothbrush week," Nov. 20 to 25.

Result: The toothbrush market is topsy-turvy. Prices have increased 100 per cent or more and quality, meanwhile has greatly fallen off.

WAGES ADVANCED 12 PER CENT

Pittsburgh, Nov. 15.—The wages of between 3000 and 1000 office men and other salaried employees of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company here were advanced about 12 per cent today through the extension of the bonus system from the shops where it has been in force for a long time. By the terms of the extension every employee will receive a bonus amounting to 8 per cent of his salary each month, providing total excessive time absent and late during that period does not exceed six hours incurred on not more than three occasions.

GERMANY TO GIVE POLES AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Warsaw, Nov. 15.—The German government has decided to create a large agricultural college in Poland. The institution will be connected with an experimental farm and start with fifteen to twenty professors and other instructors. Prof. Dr. Sorzyski, a famous Polish agricultural expert, has been requested by Governor General von Beseler to work out the plans for the college and will undoubtedly be its first head. After its organization the school is to be presented to the new government of the resurrected kingdom of Poland.

GERMANY WILL SEND 3,000 ITALIANS HOME.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—About three thousand Italian subjects who were interned in different parts of Germany when Italy declared war against the empire will shortly be released and sent home through Switzerland. Only the men of military age will remain interned to the end of the war. It is expected that the Italian government will reciprocate by liberating the Germans interned in Italy, but no such promise has been given.

NEW SWINDLE ON FARMERS NOW EXPOSED

Washington, Nov. 15.—In the wake of the farm loan law there has developed a new swindle, the farm loan board sold today—selling farmers stock in joint land banks through fake farm loan associations formed principally to furnish to promoters and stock salesmen the wherewithal to eat and sleep and go to an occasional show.

The board has passed regulations intended to stop the sale of stock by fake associations. The regulations state that no joint stock land bank shall be recognized when money has been spent on its promotion, and forbid recognition of the banks until organization of the federal land banks.

Swindlers, the board said, have operated by selling the farmers $50 shares in farm loan associations for $100—the surplus 50 going for "promotion." Of that $50, too, $25 goes to the salesman. In most cases, it was said, such companies are not organized with any intention of helping out the farmers, therefore the anti-promotion expenses regulation.

It is not intended, the board said, to hit legitimate farm loan banks. But in many cases there is evidence that needy farmers are being swindled by the holding out of anywhere from 15 to 50 per cent for "promotion." To make a bank legitimate, the money garnered from the sale of stock must be available for loans to farmers—not for expenses to promoters, it was said.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with nasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervous wrecks," "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

RESPOND LIBERALLY FOR A GOOD CAUSE*Annual Donation Party for Old Ladies' Home Most Successful for Years.

In addition to the several fine semi-public buildings in the city, which include the High School, Y. M. C. A., the Chase Home for Children, the new Army and Navy Association, and others; and to which will soon be added the new Granite State Fire Insurance Home, Portsmouth is to have another in the near future when the proposed new Home for Aged Women is erected. Funds for this worthy object are coming into the Board of Advisors in such proportions as to lead the mto believe that the new building is no longer a far distant dream and this fund was added to quite substantially on Thursday when at the Home a donation day was held. Although the amount was not made public last evening by the Board it is expected that they will make a report within a few days.

During the afternoon and evening more than three-hundred of the citizens of Portsmouth visited the Home and many valuable donations other than sums of money were made. The gifts included about every article of use and value and a large quantity of food, clothing, bedding and other material was received. An entertainment was presented during the afternoon and tea was served. The Home for Aged Women in Portsmouth is one of the many worthy charities, and although many believe that it is on a firm financial basis that no further funds are necessary. This is not the case. The donation of Thursday was announced as having been the largest in the history of the Home and the Board of Advisors and the officers were pleased at the generosity of those who assisted in any way to make the day a success.

Miss Alice Hanson and Miss Ruth Jarvis served as a music committee and during the afternoon Mrs. Beatrice Hartford Scamborough and Miss Mary Shaw gave vocal selections, and piano selections were rendered by Miss Hanson and Miss Scamborough.

Tea was poured by Mrs. G. Ralph Taughton, Mrs. G. W. Shapleigh and Miss Nellie Walker and they were assisted in serving by Miss Staples, Miss Carl, Miss Hartford, Miss Stillaber and Miss Marjory.

Mrs. Yarrowood welcomed the guests at the door, who were later welcomed by Mrs. Frye, president of the board, Mrs. Parry, Mrs. Grover and Mrs. Reed, matron of the home.

All of the inmates with the exception of two were down stairs for the occasion and these were visited by many. One must speak of the aspect of cheerfulness, the order and the comfort of the home by which the visitors were impressed. Great praise is due to Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Russell who have overcome some of the inconveniences of the old three-story building and have brought a happiness and good cheer into the work.

Mrs. C. Manning Akerman and Mrs. Hartford attended to the advertising and all who were present felt the success of the undertaking. The board of advisors wish to express to the public its great appreciation for its most hearty co-operation.

WILL BE OPENED BY THANKSGIVING*New Building for Chase Home for Children Practically Ready.

The new home of the Chase Home for Children on Middle road is practically completed and it will be opened by Thanksgiving. The trustees have delayed the opening until everything was finished, considerable delay being caused the contractors by lack of labor and material.

The children at the present home will be transferred to the new home as soon as opened and it is expected that here will be several new children admitted immediately as there is a number waiting. There are now but 17 children in the old home.

The new building is one of the best in the state and it is a model in every way. One great advantage is the extensive grounds that goes with the home, the property running through from Middle road to Greenland avenue.
